Alliance is confronted with a great perul, but also with a great opportunity, when the enemy are in the full flush of success, but the Allies' plans for their discomfiture are being matured, it is difficult to speak with patience of the demonstration of the "pacificist" group in the House of Commons yesterday. To propose an inconclusive peace at this hour, and to support it by such arguments as were advanced yesterday, is, in Mr. Balfour's words, "one of the greatest disservices which any man could render to his country."

India and the War.

As Sir Valentine Chirol said in The Temes yesterday, all good citizens of the Empire should pray for the success of Mr. Montagu's mission to India. He has undertaken, like so many of his forer runners in office, the difficult task of trying to reconcile the demand of the Indian peoples for a larger measure of self-government with the true interests of India government with the true interests of runners in office, the demand of the Indian ing to reconcile the demand of the Indian peoples for a larger measure of self-government with the true interests of India and the Empire as a whole. The greatest intensity of the fighting this norning was in the neighbourhood of Passchenacle and about the Ypres-Menin road. The yeather, although threatening, remained dry until well after the sun was up, when a light premitten divide set in causing visibility to describe the sun was up.

Strong English infantry forces then attacked on both sides of Passchendaele, and at the Mcnin-Ypres road.

With the other armies, capecially near St. Quentin, along the Allette, on both banks of the Meuse, and in the Sundgau, the firing activity welled in the evening to considerable intensity. Fewerful enemy reconnaissances failed at many places with heavy losses.

MR. R. LAMBERT.

Mr. R. LAMBERT ecconded the resolution. He denied that he and his friends were "peace-at-any-price" people. They believed that the original objects of the war must be attained before we could expect peace. Belgium must be restored and given back her complete independence, and the northern territories of France must be freed from the invader. But he feared that we were now fighting for Imperialistic aims, and in order, among other things, to restore Alsace-Lorraine and other questions ought not to be made the preliminaries of peace. They should be discussed and decided at a Peace Conference. They were matters for negotiation. There was a feeling in this country that Alsace-Lorraine stood between us and peace. It seemed to meet the situation so well that wat ch-chain owners may like to bear of it.

We have received fifty chairs so far, and feel sure that the number would be much greater if their owners had it of some such reluctance standing in the way. But we are very proud to be able to say it hat they and our lady donors have been so generous to us that already we are well past the half-way mark of our thousand pounds, and that, if only a few more jowel-boxes are opened and a few more write-chains or their equival at toome in, we shall fulfil the wish which kindly unknown friends often write to us as an acc an apaniment of country parcels: "Good luck! Ve are sure you will soon reach the goal! "—Youxs, etc.,
